

CRITICAL REFLECTION RETREAT

September 1-4 (or 5), 2019
in the Blue Ridge mountains near Asheville, North Carolina

- focused on designing, facilitating, and assessing critical reflection, including the DEAL model
- independent and collaborative work
- one-on-one work on your own projects with Patti Clayton
- a mountain cabin shared with a small community of practitioner-scholars (max 10)

PHC VENTURES

For more information and to register, contact
PattiClayton@curricularenagement.com

Co-Facilitated by

Patti H. Clayton, PhD
Senior Scholar, IUPUI & UNCG

&

Kathleen Edwards, PhD
Visiting Scholar, UNCG

DATES

Sunday, Sept. 1, 5:00pm - Wednesday, Sept. 4, noon
Additional day (focused on scholarship related to critical reflection): Wed, Sept 4, noon - Thurs, Sept 5, noon

COST

Per participant: $1000* for Sept. 1-4
Additional day: $250 extra
Deposit: $500 (due upon registration)
Full payment due by Aug. 1

* Retreat payment is transferable and non-refundable.

INCLUDES

Facilitation, consulting, lodging, meals* (breakfast, lunch, dinner, and snacks), and materials. Additional day includes potential scholarship opportunities.

* Participants are responsible for one dinner at a local restaurant.

This retreat is for ENGAGED PARTICIPANTS and adopts COMMUNITY-LIVING PRACTICES, including:

- online engagement prior to the retreat (e.g., community building and sharing our work and goals),
- group and individual work time,
- opportunities for ongoing collaborative practitioner-scholarship,
- shared vegetarian meals, and
- communal responsibility for living space.

"Attending PHCV retreats has helped me make connections with colleagues and advance my own scholarship and practice. I appreciate the co-created space to meet my own needs while learning with and supporting others. I leave these retreats with significant progress on current projects and more clarity on my long-term scholarly agenda." [retreat participant]